AdventHealth Championship announces Charity Pro-Am partnership

Former tournament winner returns to host Charity Pro-Am to benefit Kansas City community

KANSAS CITY, Missouri – The AdventHealth Championship officials announced today the Lovemark Foundation Charity Pro-Am presented by STI and benefitting the AdventHealth Kansas City Foundation, scheduled for Monday, May 15, at Blue Hills Country Club. The Lovemark Foundation is a non-profit 501c3 charity founded by 2013 AdventHealth Championship winner Jamie Lovemark and his wife Tiva.

“We are excited to collaborate with the Lovemarks, STI and the AdventHealth Kansas City Foundation on this exciting new event to add to championship week,” said AdventHealth Championship Tournament Director Rick Amos. “To be in a position to add a second Pro-Am event to our week shows the strong commitment of the Kansas City area to professional golf and overall support for charitable efforts in the community.”

During Jamie’s time at the AdventHealth Championship, he connected with the Kansas City community beyond golf, thus creating a desire to give back. Funds raised from the Lovemark Foundation Charity Pro-Am will help AdventHealth Kansas City families cope with brain cancer and brain tumors.

“Winning the AdventHealth Championship put me back on the path to the PGA Tour, and the strong relationships I built during that week are the reasons I wanted to help give back to a community that’s still important to me to this day,” said Lovemark.

The Monday Pro-Am will be the second Pro-Am of the week, and feature a shotgun start for teams with four (4) amateur positions along with a Korn Ferry Tour professional. Pro-Am team participants will also receive a tee gift, plus all-inclusive food and beverage. Those interested in participating are asked to please contact Nichole Smith at nsmith@brunoeventteam.com or 816-739-0720.
